

General information on cookies found on BorsodChem's websites

Cookies are small text files, which are placed on the user's computer or other device by the website visited by him/her. There are numerous reasons and objectives of utilising cookies, among other things they can show whether the user has visited the given site previously and they assist the owners of websites in measuring the number of visitors related to a specific period. Cookies contain information on the use of user's device, they are safe and they do not contain any confidential information.

With the help of cookies our colleagues can estimate among other things as to from what device, in what language and from which country the person opening the website visits it and the visiting frequency is measured by cookies. This information is used anonymously.

It is possible to manage, delete or restrict the use of cookies among settings of the browser.

Please, consider that by deleting and banning cookies you influence user experience or it may happen that certain parts or functions of the website will not be available.
